Sands's Sansaparilla. A.—Mr. Philip R. Capen, of Windham, comes to add snother to the many testimonicls in favor of Sands's Sansaparilla. His wife has been for nearly two yars troubled with an indolent swelling under her tongue, which was so large as to impede her swallowing, and much affecther speech. It was frequently opened and discharged large quantities of very offensive matter. She had also the Erysipelas, accompanied with extensive dropsical enlargement, attended with darting pains, so severe as to disturb and much of the time totally deprive her of rest. One of her arms was ostiff and painful as to render it almost useless. Under althese afflictions, by the advice of her physician, she used his valuable article, which almost immediately relieved the pain and lameness, removed the awelling and disease under the tosaue, and so reduced the dropsical enlargement as to leave her dress nearly a quanter of a yard two large around the waist; the swelling of the limbs, which was very distressing and toublesome, has also been removed.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

This is one of the best of all the Irish novels—full of spirit, fun, drollery and wit, and embellished by numerous humorous engracings.

[Cour. & Eng. —In all the lands where Fams has flourished, or Fun is flourished. —In all the lands where Fame has flourished, or Fun is Hourishing—where Merriment draws open the jaws with a laugh, or Pathos draws down the eyelids with a tear—there is no doubt Hector O'Halloran will become a general favorite with our readers, and be received with the most fraternal greeting of journal affection.

His narrative is picturesque, and his dialogue lively. The book campat hat most with success.

It would be quite absurd were we to offer any comment on the style of the gifted author of the 'Stories of Waterloo.' It would be to 'paint the lily.' The quotation is old, but the application is happy in this instance. [Cork Examiner. The dearnaxis personae are admirably well drawn. The character of Father Dominic and that of Mary Halligan, have a relish and truthfulness about them rarely to be met with.

[Conservative Journal.]

This work shoots far ahead of most of its contemporary rivals. The bud of promise and the full blown flowerare rarely seen together; yet, to speak seriously, this may be safely said to be the case with The Fortunes of Hector O'Halloran and His Man Mark Autony O'Toole.

—Not a page can be read without dispelling the blues, and patting a misenthrope in the best of humor. Lover and Maxwell, the fathers respectfully of 'Hundy Andy' and 'Hector O'Halloran,' are kindred spirits and worthy, like Botts and the Cantain, to sleep in the same bed. Whoever would 'Lungh and grow lat,' should read the story of Hector's Adventures.

IRELAND! IRELAND! SECOND EDITION.
A MEMOIR ON IRELAND, NATIVE AND SAXON. By DANIEL O'CONNELL, M. P.

With a Likeness of the Author. Price 25 Cents. This is a most extraordinary book, and will, doubtless, produce a most profound impression. We talk not of what may be called the Reading Public, nor even the masses in Ireland, for whom, no doubt, a cheaper edition will be prepared, with a view to general circulation. The impression we speak of is that which must be felt by Statesmen—by Sir Robert Peel, by Lord John Russell, by M. Guizot and M. Thiers. That the volume will have an European and an American circulation, may be taken, comidering the Author and the subject, as a matter of course. Next week, if not already published, it will be printed in English at Paris and at Brussels, and in a month there will be a translation, perhaps, too, into French. We cannot doubt that German versions will appear in Berlin, Dresden, and in Munich: for the King of Bayria, though a Lexitimist, is a thorough Catholic. It will pass the Alps, too, and "the English in Italy" will have the satisfaction of reading O'Connell's History of Ireland in "choice Italian." We should not be surprised if the Emperor of Russia would command a Sclavonian translation, if only to show the Poles that there have been more horded, more persevering, and more bloody persecutors of the Catholic Church than be has been. As to its circulation in America, we need not speak; there will be twenty editions in twenty weeks, and, no doubt the Mexicans will speedily read the work in Spanish.

This, then, is a book universal; it will be read by all men, and in all literary languages, in the course of twelve months.

The firm of Greeley & McElrath, by whom it has been brought out, deserve the listing gratifule of the Irish citizens of this Republic, not only for the promptness with which they have got out the work, but also for the creditable manner of its execution. "O'Connell.'s History of Ireland.—We have received a copy of this valuable and instructive work, by Daniel O'Connell, the great Liberator. The wrongs and the sufferings of the Irish people for a century past are portrayed in a masterly manner, and show conclusively that reform, instant and lasting, is imperatively called for, and that the day is not far distant when it must come. The sons of Ireland resident throughout this country have entered into the spirit of Repress. with such ardor and enthusiasm that the very Throne of Great Britain rocks with fear of the consequences, and well it may, for these 'signs and tokens' indicate that the tide of justice to Ireland is near at its flood. The historian, after stating the manner in which the English Rulers beretofore committed rapine, murder, massacre, treachery, &c. on the Irish people says, as to the present manner of acting, that, though 'the form of the persecution is altered, the spirit remains the same.—Those who heretofore would have used the dagger, or the knife of the assassin, employ now only the tongue or the pen of the calumniator, and, instead of murdering, bodies, exhaut their energies in assassinating reputation. Calumny has been substituted for murder, and the faction which has so long rioted in Irish blood, consoles its virulent and malignant passions by indulying in ever-varying, never-dying falsehood and triculent slander. We recommend the work to all, whether native or foreign, whose bosoms beat for liberty and independence."

"O'Connell traces the Political History of Ireland from the first partial establishment of English domination in 1172. The picture will, at least, in many of its features cause the blood to course more rapidly through the veins of Irishmen. Many of the details are thrillingly interesting." [Phila, Inquirer. State of Missouri. The Curators of the University at heir meeting on May 16th, did enact and ordain as follows:— 1st. That the whole course of Collegiate instruction be divid into five departments. 1st. Of Ethics, History, Civil Polity and Political Econo-

Ist. Of Ethies, History, Civil Polity and Political Economy.

2d. Metaphysics, Logic, Rhetoric and English Literature.

3d. Ancient and Modern Languages and Literature.

4th. Mathematics, Natural Phylosophy and Astronomy.

5th. Chemistry, Minerdogy, Geology, Botany, Natural History and Physiology.

2d. That for the support of each department there be annually appropriated five dollars per scholar from the proceeds of fution, and one-sixth of the income of the Seminary fund provided that said sixth do not exceed $833 per annum.

3d. That the revenue of each of the Departments shall be first applied to the partment of salary and arrearges due the Professor; and the balance if any, to the purchase of books and other necessary apparatus under the direction of the Professor for the use of the Dapartment.

4th. That if any Departments be vacant the revenue thereof shall be applied it necessary to the support of the Professors in the Departments which are filled.

5th. That the salary of the Tators of the preparatory Department shall not be less than one half the average emoluments of the Professors.

the Professors.

The undersigned in submitting to the attention of literary men, the above ordinance of the Board of Curators, deem their duty to accompany the same with the following

The Seminary fund constituting the whole productive endowment of the University is $100,000 invested in Capital Stock of the Bank of the State of Missouri. Over this fund the Curators have no control whatever, except to administer the dividends as they accrue. Gentlemen accepting places will therefore understand, that aside from the proceeds of unition, they must rely for their emoluments on the Dividends of the Bank; and on the bounty which the State may hereafter exercise towards its own Institution.

The law defining the powers of the Curators declares all appointments to be holden at the pleasure of the Board; and directs them to fix the compensation of all officers annually.—Gentlemen accepting places must therefore confide in the disposition of the Board to pursue a just policy in this behalf. It is not improbable that the emoluments of office will be adjusted to the length of service and the increasing value of the instructions of the Professors—the revenue of each Department as fixed by article 2d of the above ordinance being the limit of the salary of the incumbent.

The Curators design proceeding to the election of Professors, on or before the first Wednesday in September. The appointments will take effect at the commencement, Wednesday, the 22d of November, on which occasion Inaugural Addresses will be expected from the Professors elect.

It is deemed proper further to remark, that the President's salary, which is fixed at $1,250 and $5,00 per scholar per annum on each student, is to be first paid.

All communications from candidates for prefernent and ac-
